

Don Low Fellowship: Equine Integrative Sports Medicine Service

The Equine Integrative Sports Medicine Service is directed towards sports medicine and lameness cases and incorporates routine lameness work-ups, diagnostics and treatments in addition to complementary modalities including acupuncture, chiropractic, saddle fit, laser therapy and rehabilitation.

The Equine Integrative Sports Medicine Service is excited to offer a Don Low Fellowship position. Don Low fellows who join the Equine Integrative Sports Medicine Service have specific opportunities including:

- 1) Participate in service rounds on recent sports medicine literature and daily discussions involving patients.
- 2) Involvement in work-ups of sports medicine cases with an integrative approach.
- 3) Involvement in treatment of sports medicine cases with a focus on complementary modalities (acupuncture, chiropractic).
